

Welcome to the West Point Officers' Club

Founded on December 20, 1841, the West Point Army Mess has occupied three different locations.

During its first ten years it was located in the Old Cadet Mess Hall, which stood on the southwest corner of the Plain.

From 1851 to 1901, it had quarters in the New Cadet Mess Hall, site of the present Grant Hall.

In 1902 the Mess moved to its present location when the original part of this building, designed by Stanford White, was built.

In 1963, a major enlargement to the original structure was made possible through a generous bequest from Mrs. Agnes Pierce, in memory of her husband, Brigadier General Palmer Eddy Pierce, USMA 1891.

Portraits of both General and Mrs. Pierce hang in the Pierce Dining Room.

United States Military Academy

at West Point, New York

When you step into the United States Military Academy you become part of a tradition that's as old as the United States itself. The first of the service academies, West Point has trained officer-leaders since its founding in 1802.

West Point's role in the nation's history dates back to the Revolutionary War, when both sides realized the strategic significance of the Hudson River. To control the Hudson was to control an artery linking New England with the other colonies. The patriots gained that control in 1778 by occupying the high ground dominating the narrow "S" turn in the river at a place called West Point. George Washington had a hand in fortifying West Point in 1778, transferring his headquarters here in 1779. Continental soldiers built forts, batteries, redoubts and extended a 150-ton iron chain across the river to control river traffic. Fortress West Point was never captured by the British and is the oldest, continuously occupied military post in the country.

Academic and military life at West Point has changed steadily over the years, along with the expansion of knowledge and the changing needs of the Army and the nation. Yet, West Point remains linked to the illustrious past, and the appeal of life at the Academy always comes back to the tradition of the motto on which it was founded – Duty, Honor, Country
